Career Interests Report

Linking a Person's Vocational Personality to Potential Future Career Themes

Applications

The Career Interests Report highlights a person's preferred career themes and helps explore the underlying work environment and activities that they may find most suitable. Ideal for:

Career Coaching Supporting people who are seeking or starting a new career.

Career Transition Useful tools for helping those who may be at a career crossroads and considering a career change.

Outplacement Supporting organisations that may be going through change or downsizing and want to provide resettlement support for those affected.

The Report

The report uses the Holland Model of Vocational Personality which are derived from responses given when taking the TSTI. Each of the six career themes provides detailed descriptions of the attributes, preferred work environment and typical skills for each career theme.

Artistic Career Theme

Artistic people are independent thinkers who have a strong desire to express themselves creatively. They are original and imaginative and typically enjoy creative activities such as music, drama, dance and writing. Artistic people are more likely to pursue aesthetic or cultural activities in preference to scientific activities. They enjoy variety and change and dislike work that is too structured or repetitive. Artistic people are intuitive and original in their thinking and enjoy developing new ideas and concepts. In general they take a greater interest in ideas and people compared to data and things.
